

The photograph shows a street food stall at night. A vendor, a man wearing a green apron and a face mask, is standing behind a counter. He is wearing blue gloves and is holding a red bucket. On the counter, there are several baskets of food, including what looks like fried rice or noodles. In the foreground, there is a table covered with a floral tablecloth, with various items on it, including a white basket and some bottles. The stall has a menu board with Thai text and prices. The menu board is divided into two sections. The left section lists items like 'ข้าวผัด' (fried rice) and 'ข้าวต้ม' (rice porridge) with prices. The right section lists items like 'ข้าวผัด' (fried rice) and 'ข้าวต้ม' (rice porridge) with prices. There are also some signs on the stall, including a QR code and a sign that says '10'.

